DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 12-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Toda (5,603,106) in view of Kawano et al. (5,774,797).

Regarding claim 12, Toda discloses a communication system, comprising: a base station and a communication terminal (column 1 line 23) wherein the communication terminal including an amplifier which outputs a signal having a frequency value and wherein a power of the communication terminal is varied in dependence of the frequency value (column 2 lines 9-23). However, Toda does not specifically disclose a DC/DC converter.

Kawano discloses a portable telephone including a variable voltage generator (#120 of fig.3), wherein the variable voltage generator controls a DC/DC converter (#123 of fig.7) to vary an electrical supply of the amplifier of the portable telephone (column 11 lines 1-27). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have Toda, modified by Kawano to control the voltage supply to the amplifier in order to prevent damage due to overheat the amplifier.

Art Unit: 2685

Regarding claims 16 and 20, these claims are rejected for the same reason as set forth in claim 12.

Regarding claims 13, 17, and 21, Toda discloses the mobile terminal storing data for controlling the power (column 4 lines 34-42).

Regarding claims 14, 18, and 22, Toda discloses the mobile terminal comparing a level of the signal with a desired signal level (column 8 lines 49-60).

Regarding claim 15, Toda discloses the base station instructing the mobile terminal to increase or decrease the transmission power (column 3 lines 15-17).

Regarding claims 19 and 23, Toda discloses the power level outputs from the mobile terminal provided by a radio base station control apparatus (column 3 lines 18-22).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 12-23 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

The new cited Kawano reference teaches a portable phone including a variable voltage generator, wherein the variable voltage generator controls a DC/DC converter to vary an electrical supply of the power amplifier which meets added limitations of independent claims 12, 16, and 20.

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

Art Unit: 2685

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
